Welcome to Keystone Ranch Golf Course, elevation 9,300 feet. This course blends historic, rustic Western charm with a magnificent, challenging course designed by Robert Trent Jones, Jr. The Soda Creek valley, in which the course sits, was once three ranching homesteads dating back to the early 1900's. The Smith family built the Ranch house, now functioning as the renowned Keystone Ranch Restaurant, and many of the on course outbuildings which still stand today.

The course opened in the summer of 1980, with 7,090 yards of mountain links style golf located on 325 acres of pure Colorado. Winding through lodgepole pines, around sage meadows, and across a nine-acre lake, this par-72 course will challenge and awe golfers of all abilities. Robert Trent Jones, Jr. says "This course will never let the golfer capture it, but he will have fun trying."
